The Reconstruction Question. Mr. Banks' speech, delivered on Saturday, cant of the tendency of public opinion. The interests of humanity. principal arguments employed were the emtina division of Southern sectiment by immigraple will, of their own act, brenk away from the tions. unity of sentiment that has prevailed at the Bouth and form free institutions by their own

In the course of the debate it was asserted by Mr. Backs and one or two other members that a bill will soon be presented which will satisfy the North on the suffrage question, and to which the President will agree. Mr. Shellabarger said such a bill will be presented by the New Orleans Committee for the reconstruction of Louisiana which may serve as a general

All the place thus far brought forward hard falled to command so general assent as to make it possible to pass them without the assent of the President. If it is possible to frame one on which the Executive and Congress will agree and which will secure the rights of all the loyalists of the South, such an act is most desirable, from whatever source it may come Mr. Banks intimated in his remarks that, should the President refers his assent to a bill which would answer these conditions and be constitutional and legal, it might be necessary Pettis and several suilboals and yawis that The Washingtonian movement accomplished to inquire into his conduct with, a view to his

In conclusion he gave his own views of the proper and safe action in the provisions of a bill which he had drawn up for Louislana but was not then prepared to introduce for Conprocessoral action. It contains these features :

It sets forth that the form of government now existing in Louisiana has never been recognized by the Congress of the United States, and that it fails to secure rights to logal citizens, and pro-yides for a commission of three persons, one to be appointed by the Senate, one by the Hanse of Representatives and one by the Secretary of Wer, shall be authorized to proceed to the State Louisiana, with authority to replace the polit-al organization now extaining there and to reconstruct a civil government on the basis specified to the Constitutional Amendment proposed by the first session of the Toirty-ninth Congress. The commissioners shall, without delay, securo a regisbe allowed to vote provided they have estates valued at one bundred dollars or opward, or can read or write, or were born within the State or have contributed by pariment of taxed to the support of the Government. Exception is related in States, or member of a State Legislature, or Governor of a State, or had held a judicial office, had taken an eath to support the Constitution of the number equal to the number in the State Legisla-ture prior to the late rebellion, and to which convention shall be submitted the question of the acceptance of this bill and the ratification of the Constitutional Amendment; and the convention scall then proceed to form a State constitution, republican in form, which shall be submitted to a rate of the people, and if ratified by the majority of them it shall be submitted to Congress, and if approved by Congress, Louisines shall be admitted to all the privileges in the Union. Everywhere there are changes. Nothing remains fixed, oither in the world of nature or of out the whole universe is subject to viciositude? to reasons of growth and decay : to times of rovival and declension. We have only to look about us to see the evidences of this. In the natural world we see the alternations of day and night; of summer and winter; of birth and death. In history we behold the rise and fall of nations; the Austrations of barbarism and civilization; the changes of dark and golden ages. In religion we witness seasons of corruption and of reformation; of times when the arrogance of dogmetic theology and pharisaical tical piety and good works are put forth with zeal and holy love, blessing the world with innumerable labors of evangelism and philanthropy. Every scheme of humanity, even, feels the influence of such changes, like the flood and obb of tides on the sea-coast. Brave and good men equip themselves for fight against some grim wrong; they rally multitudes about their banners; they sweep down upon the enemy, and gain some victories ; yet, after all this, they are apt to rest upon their laurels, while the foe is busy, and so the work has to

Peerless Cooking Stove.

Here is the opinion of the editor of the Boston Jriunal.—We have been very much pleased in examing a stove of this pattern, manufactured by Messrs. Pratt & Wentworth of Roxbury for the Paris Exposition, at the store of W. F. Shaw & Cu., 509 Wastington Street. It is one of the most beautifully finished articles of kitchen furnature we have ever seen, the modified being seing steet fielshed, the knobs and handles silver plated, the tank and hot clusts are made of German silver, all the hollow ware used on the store is finely cnamelled, and the tea-kettle is of burntshed copper. barnished copper.

Among the peculiar merits claimed for this stove is the complete ventilation and even temperature of the even, making it a coasting rather than a a baking over, which is recured by a peculiarly constructed air-claimber, which heats the air as it passes down behind the tire pot and into the even, causing the even to hake erross perfectly and evenly, a creat desideration with a caseful force. causing the oven to hake or rosst perfectly and evenly, a great desideration with a careful house; wife; the perfect control which can be kept over the fire, and its cleanliness. This stove works equally well with coal or wood. These stove works equally well with coal or wood. These stove are different sizes, and are made plain or with an extension top, the latter being made with a large receivoir for hot water on the top, and a warning closet underneath. Those of our readers who would like to keep pur with the times good dewould like to keep up with hot lines would do well to call and examine this "Peerless storm."
